

importance of sanskrit language sanskrit is gods own language and was written by sages

In the world among all the languages sanskrit language is the ancient one.

In ancient times sanskrit language was the common language of the people.

Its literature is ancient and rich.

It is a divine language.

Sanskrit is also known as: Devabhasha, suravani, Devavani, geerwani etc.

Now also this language is used in cultural programs daily.

Sanskrit is the mother of many languages in India.

Its vocabulary is very vast.

The relation between sanskrit and hindi is like mom and daughter.

Sanskrit language is very capable to express feelings.

This language is able to express a lot of feeling by small words.

There are 4 vedas and upanishads and puranans, many religious books, many scriptures were written in sanskrit

By studying sanskrit studying other languages becomes easier.

By learning Sanskrit we all are able to know our own culture.

So everyone should learn sanskrit.

The first epic poetry ramayanam was written in Sanskrit by maharshi valmiki.

The sage vedavyasa write mahabharatam which was also written in Sanskrit.

There are many poets In India like: kalidasa, Banabatta, harsha, bhavabhutaha; they wrote in Sanskrit language poets, epics

The Indian Government Emblem motto is given that "Truth only wins" that sanskrit lines show the importance.

In the LIC motto it is written that "I care for well being". The Indian airforce motto "touch the sky with glory" that shows the pride of sanskrit language.